Katie Tomsett is an English-qualified associate in the Singapore office of Gibson, Dunn & Crutcher. She advises on international white collar crime and regulatory investigations, internal investigations, and international disputes.

She also counsels corporations as part of their transactional due diligence, in connection with international anti-corruption and bribery laws and anti-money laundering regulations.

Katie trained at Gibson Dunn, during which time she spent a year seconded to the firm's Hong Kong office, and also gained experience working with the Corporate and Financial Regulation teams.

She has an active pro-bono practice, with a focus on the protection of endangered wildlife.

Katie received a First Class degree in Human Sciences from the University of Oxford in 2017. She was admitted as a Solicitor in 2022.
